President's Message: Welcome new alumni

WALSAA President Tom Janczewski

Greetings Fellow Alumni!

By the time this issue arrives in your mailbox, the spring semester will be in the rear view mirror and we will be planning for an exciting 2016-17 academic year.

Congratulations to our newest alumni! I enjoyed meeting many of them at WALSAA's pre-commencement gathering and look forward to welcoming them into the fold as WALSAA members. If you know any new graduates, make sure you encourage them to join WALSAA. Better yet, buy them a WALSAA membership. Is there any better graduation gift than a WALSAA lifetime membership?

I would also like to thank WALSAA's sponsors for their continued generosity. This year our sponsors really stepped up their support. Please consider giving our sponsors your business when the opportunity arises. By now, many of you are asking: How can my company become a WALSAA sponsor? Please talk to Valerie Johnson and she can give you all the details. We have sponsorship opportunities to fit any company's budget. By becoming a WALSAA sponsor you will get to both support a great organization and receive some high visibility promotion for your business. This is an opportunity you do not want to pass up.

The contributions made throughout the year support the activities of WALSAA with one of the most important being our academic awards and scholarships for students. In this issue, read about the 10 exceptional four-year students honored with the Outstanding Sophomore Award and Scholarship. In addition, five Farm and Industry Short Course students received scholarships. Lastly, we recognize the WALSAA Outstanding Advisor, Heidi Boodrich-Blair, professor in the Department of Bacteriology. We commend and congratulate all of these deserving honorees.

As I mentioned in the last WALSAA Express, former Membership and Events Coordinator Maria Woldt has departed WALSAA. Maria accepted a position as director of industry relations at the Dairy Business Association. We wish her the best. In April, we hired Stephanie Stout as the new WALSAA membership and events coordinator.

Stephanie Stout

Stephanie owns Polled Dairy Cattle #PolledPlace in Wisconsin Dells, and remains involved with her family farm, Briar Holsteins, located in Monroe. In addition, Stephanie is active in the Dairy Girl Network, Wisconsin Farm Bureau and the Illinois Holstein Association. Please join me in welcoming Stephanie to WALSAA.

Mark your calendars for a couple of upcoming WALSAA-related events. If you are attending Farm Technology Days in Walworth County this summer, plan on attending the WALSAA picnic on July 20 at Walworth County Fairgrounds. This year's event will be held in conjunction with the Friends of Walworth County Junior Beef Project annual steak fry.

The WALSAA Football Fire-Up will be on Saturday, Sept. 17 with the Badgers taking on the Georgia State University Panthers. GSU is coming off a 2015 bowl appearance and is led by two former Packer assistants, head coach Trent Miles and offensive coordinator Jeff Jagodzinski. You don't want to miss this game and you definitely don't want to miss the opportunity to connect with old friends and meet new friends at the 2016 WALSAA Football Fire-Up. We will again be at the UW Foundation parking lot in Madison and will have a great selection of silent auction items available for purchase. This event is one of the largest fundraising events of the year and the proceeds significantly support scholarships for students. This year marks the first WALSAA Daluge Red Jacket Award presentation. Congratulations to Jack Kaltenberg on receiving this honor! Be certain to plan on attending this great event to visit with fellow CALS alumni and students.

CALS Message: A farewell to CALS and UWEX Administration

CALS Associate Dean for Extension and Outreach John Shutske

After a lot of discussion with my family, I've decided to step down from my administrative roles this summer to head back to my faculty home in Biological Systems Engineering. I've served as CALS' associate dean for extension and outreach since 2008. This job has been the most fast-moving and rewarding of my career.

As a member of faculty, I will develop research and extension programs that apply new technologies – including sensors, robotics and wireless communications – to reduce injuries and negative health outcomes for people and the environment. I'm thrilled to return to faculty life. I love recruiting and mentoring students and opening young minds to the excitement of applying engineering solutions to complex agricultural and environmental problems.

As we speak, Extension is going through the biggest change in its 100-plus-year history. The "nEXT Generation" reorganization efforts began in early 2015, and the process will continue through this year and result in change that impacts counties and UW campuses. I am hopeful that these efforts will lead to an organization that is more streamlined, efficient, modern and sustainable for the coming decades.

Looking back at my associate dean experience, it's amazing how many things happen in a world-class land-grant university like UW-Madison in a short time. In eight years, I've been able to work with five different deans, and I've loved solving complicated problems with wonderful colleagues in CALS and UWEX administration. The most rewarding role has been to align resources to respond to a rapidly changing world. I've been able to support departments, centers and regional extension leaders as we've hired about 30 campus specialists at UW-Madison and UW-River Falls, and more than 35 county educators and agents.

Wisconsin is a special place. When I was a candidate for this position in late 2007, then-Dean Molly Jahn invited me over from Minnesota to experience a Badger football game. While I'd been sold on the job itself, it was that sunny October afternoon in Camp Randall, and feeling the stadium sway during "Jump Around," that convinced our family that Madison was the place to be.

We're also a special state in that agriculture faces enormous challenges in the coming decade that CALS and Cooperative Extension must meet head-on. We will continue to see growing needs and critical challenges around water and other natural resources; competing sustainably in a global food and agricultural market; and appropriately and safely deploying new biological, genetic and digital technologies. The great people in our college are up to the task, and I am eager to engage with them wearing my creative faculty hat.

Best wishes to all the WALSAA members whom I've had the pleasure of meeting. I will still see you around, but it will be from a different seat – and, hopefully, with a glow on my face.

On, Wisconsin!

FISC Corner: Congratulations FISC award recipients

WALSAA FISC Chairman Bob Behnke

Hundreds upon hundreds came to the newly remodeled Union South. What they witnessed was a brand new class of FISC students walk across the stage, receive their certificate and become alumni.

It was a wonderful event, with FISC Director Jessie Potterton at the helm. She presented the students as College of Agricultural and Life Sciences Dean Kathryn VandenBosch handed out the certificates. The cumulative group of students were very respectful, thankful for the opportunities they have had, and excited to take on the world.

WALSAA board member and FISC graduate Cory Brown gave an inspirational speech. Brown also introduced the WALSAA award winners. The WALSAA Outstanding Leadership and Activity Awards were presented to William Coyne, Sarah Pate and Lindsey Rettenmund. The WALSAA Academic Award was awarded to five students with the highest cumulative GPA. They were Patrick Rebout, Austin Timmerman, Lindsey Rettenmund and Anthony Seelow. The Outstanding Student Awards went to Sarah Pate, Patrick Rebout, Lindsey Rettenmund, Anthony Seelow and Brett Weiland.

WALSAA would like to extend an invitation to all FISC graduates to become members. We all might have a little different reason why to join the alumni group. For some, it is a chance to give back, for others it is the connection to the people.

One thing we can be certain about is that although life may take us away from campus, Farm & Industry Short Course will always be with you.

Another successful Hit the Ice with WALSAA event held in January

Thank you to all of the UW alumni and supporters who joined us again this year for our Hit the Ice with WALSAA event on Jan. 30! A special thank you to BMO Harris Bank for sponsoring this year's event.

The Women's Hockey team defeated St. Cloud State 3-1. That excitement, coupled with our sold-out, pregame event made the day a huge success. Guests enjoyed a wonderful buffet at Wando's, a 50/50 raffle and an exciting – and competitive – silent auction. A special thank you to those who donated items to the auction and those who purchased items to support CALS students:

Silent auction items included:

- WALSAA lifetime membership donated by WALSAA
- J. Henry & Sons basket donated by J. Henry & Sons

- Wine, sausage and cheese basket donated by Bob Behnke
- An opportunity to conduct the UW Marching Band during a 5th quarter performance donated by the UW Marching Band
- WALSAA Football Fire-Up package for two donated by WALSAA
- Signed Badger mini hockey stick donated by UW Hockey

Please continue to watch the WALSAA Express for updates on next year's Hit the Ice with WALSAA, as well as other exciting events!

WALSAA Farm Technology Days Annual Picnic set for July 20

UW–Madison's College of Agricultural and Life Sciences and Farm & Industry Short Course graduates are invited to attend the annual WALSAA Farm Technology Days Picnic. It will be held Wednesday, July 20, from 4 to 7 p.m. at the Walworth County Fairgrounds. After a day at the show, enjoy a grilled steak with all the fixings, including water or milk, at the fairground's Activity Center. You also get a homemade dessert of your choice.

For this event, WALSAA is joining forces with others to support the Friends of the Walworth County Junior Beef Project. The meal will be shared by many, but WALSAA members and guests will have a separate building within the immediate area of the food service line. This will allow us to visit with alumni, CALS leadership and other guests. It will also allow us to enjoy soda and possibly some adult beverages with our meal.

Tickets for the event are just $20 per person. Child pricing will be available. Large crowds are expected, so please RSVP in advance at www.walsaa.org. Walk-ins will be accepted, but RSVPs are much appreciated!

The host of the 2016 Farm Technology Days in Walworth County is Snudden Farms, N764 Zenda Road, Lake Geneva. The WALSAA picnic site is located on Hwy 11 in Elkhorn.

WALSAA announces Football Fire-Up for Sept. 17

Join hundreds of your former classmates, network or just have fun at this fall's 41st annual WALSAA Football Fire-Up Saturday, Sept. 17. The big event will be prior to the faceoff between the Wisconsin Badgers and the Georgia State Panthers and will again be in the parking lot of the UW-Foundation, 1848 University Avenue.

Plans include entertainment such as a band, visit from Bucky Badger, a host of great silent auction items on which to bid, and a huge steak meal including everything from beer to potatoes to ice cream. To encourage more family attendance, this year family games will be added.

Kaltenberg to receive first WALSAA Daluge Red Jacket Award

Watch a new tradition begin at the Sept. 17th WALSAA Football Fire-Up as the first WALSAA Daluge Red Jacket Award will be presented to Jack Kaltenberg.

The new award honors Peggy and Rick Daluge, known to most WALSAA members. Rick was WALSAA's executive director for many years and a founding member of the National Ag Alumni and Development Association (NAADA). Rick served as CALS placement director and CALS assistant dean before retiring as FISC director in 2008. A red jacket will be presented to someone who has helped WALSAA grow each year in their honor.

Jack Kaltenberg

Kaltenberg was selected as the first recipient because, as an early WALSAA president, he guided the organization through much growth. With his help, WALSAA increased membership, jumpstarted alumni outreach through area dinners and began more student awards at graduation.

"I recall the first Fire-Up," Kaltenberg said. "We had 40 people and a grill on the grass outside the Stock Pavilion." This event has now grown to about 500 people and is an annual industry event.

Kaltenberg is an owner of Partners in Production, LLC. He and his wife, Jane, live in DeForest.

WALSAA Football Fire-Up sponsor opportunities

Need to recruit or advertise to your former classmates or new CALS grads or interns? Consider a sponsorship at this fall's WALSAA Football Fire-Up.

This fall event precedes a major UW-Madison football game and is our largest event, allowing alumni, faculty and students to network. About 500 people attended the last two events. Discounts apply if combined with other sponsorships such as FISC Reunion, Farm Technology Days Picnic or WALSAA Express newsletter.

WALSAA offers:

- Presenting Sponsors – five maximum, non-competing. Sponsors will be recognized with logo on banner and signage, logo in the invitation, news release mention and introduced at the event. Cost: $1,000 (includes four Fire-Up luncheon tickets)

- Badger Level Sponsors – ten maximum. Sponsors will be recognized with name on banner and signage, in the invitation, news release mention and announced at the event. Cost: $500 (includes two Fire-Up luncheon tickets)

To reach the more than 500 expected attendees, contact Valerie Johnson at vjohnson@habitatdane.org or (608) 235-5595 for a list of available opportunities. Most sponsorships include complimentary Fire-Up tickets.

Mark your calendar for Sept. 17 and use the form in this newsletter or visit www.walsaa.org for Fire-Up and football ticket order information. Football ticket limits and deadlines apply so order early.

CALS Happenings

By Matt Olson, WALSAA Student Representative

The end of the academic year is an exciting time for many students. After finals week settles down, everyone goes their own direction – whether it is for internships or research or to start their careers after graduation. As my term as the WALSAA student representative comes to a close, I am thankful for the opportunity to represent the undergraduate students in CALS. I am also thankful for the alumni that I have had the privilege to meet and network with along the way. On behalf of the students of CALS, we appreciate your continued support.

In my corner of the world, I am graduating with a degree in life sciences communication. After graduation, I am joining Charleston | Orwig in Hartland as a junior account executive in their reputation management group.

As I move on, I am sure that I will continue to see many of you at industry events and campus gatherings. So this isn't really goodbye, it's see you later.

By Logan Wells, WALSAA Student Representative

Thank you WALSAA for all of the support for not only me personally but all students. As the year ends, in classes we often review over the class learning objectives and what all we have learned. At graduation, it is fitting to reflect on the overarching lessons learned throughout college, whether that is in the classroom, through student organizations, volunteering or other components of the college experience. One lesson that WALSAA specifically has taught me is the importance of giving back. Whether it is through scholarships and innovation grants, sitting on advisory boards or simply giving kind words to faculty and students, WALSAA members are always the first to help out our college. Other colleges in the university simply don't have that kind of support. Again thank you WALSAA for all you do to make this school the best it can be.

Next fall I will be attending graduate school at Purdue University. While in West Lafayette, I will be pursuing a masters in wood science, studying sawmill optimization technologies. Specifically I will be working with a program that takes a CT scan of hardwood logs and how to read that scan and saw the log up to maximize the log's value. After my masters, I would either like to get a job as a wood products extension officer or start my own sawmill in Wisconsin.

Thank you again for all the support, and I will be sure to always remember to give back to others as WALSAA does!

Matt Olson

WALSAA Football Fire-Up volunteers wanted

Summer is here, and the season kicks off WALSAA's annual planning efforts for another amazing fall Fire-Up tailgate party.

WALSAA is specifically seeking your help to assist in planning this great annual tradition, which will be held on Sept. 17. With high attendance anticipated, we need your guidance in meeting member expectations again this year!

Assistance is needed from arranging the food to acquiring items for the silent auction, WALSAA's main fundraiser for the Outstanding Sophomore and FISC Awards.

If you would like to take the opportunity to assist in the planning and set-up of the 41st annual WALSAA Football Fire-Up, contact WALSAA at admin@walsaa.org or (608) 438-1994.

Thank you in advance for your time and commitment to WALSAA!

Member profile: Watch them grow!

Written by Deanna Kovar, WALSAA Member

Savannah Waller has been dreaming about an education at UW-Madison since she was a little girl attending Badger football games with her family. Growing up on a crop farm in Janesville made her a natural fit for CALS and the Agronomy Department where she has learned about how crops grow and grown herself.

Savannah Waller

With one year remaining in her education at Madison, Savannah is busy making sure she gets the most out of her time left. She is active in CALS organizations like the Association of Women in Agriculture (AWA), Collegiate Farm Bureau (CFB) and the National Agri-Marketing Association (NAMA).

Savannah says her time in NAMA has been "extremely rewarding in helping uncover her passion for marketing." She was a member of the 2016 NAMA Marketing Team that took home the top prize at April's National Competition in Kansas City. The team created a full marketing launch plan for their product CranBerrri, a naturally sweet alternative to other dried fruit snacks. They focused their plan on marketing to several specific consumer categories. Savannah's experience with the student NAMA chapter will be capped off next year in a great way as she was recently elected to be the 2016-17 student chapter president.

Savannah says, "The NAMA class and competition have been an amazing experience. It was awesome to work with the team throughout the semester and see all of our hard work pay off at such a competitive and respected event." Savannah is already looking forward to brainstorming product ideas for next year!

Savannah's time on the NAMA Marketing Team has helped her to realize that after graduation she would like to work in agri-marketing. This will allow her to leverage her passion for agriculture and experience all that the industry has to offer.

The winning 2016 NAMA Student Marketing Competition Team from UW-Madison.

Savannah Waller at Pioneer world headquarters in Johnston, Iowa.

In addition, CALS was instrumental in helping Savannah find real-world experience through a summer internship with DuPont Pioneer in the summer of 2015. This summer she will be working in the vineyard and tasting room at Botham Vineyards, combining her love of both agronomy and marketing – stop by and see her in Barneveld.

When asked what impact alumni have had on her CALS experience, Savannah says, "Many talented alumni have helped to prepare me for my time after college through job search and interviewing tips. These interactions have allowed me to advance my professional skills so that I can shine a positive light on the University of Wisconsin College of Agricultural and Life Sciences for many years to come."

WALSAA awards Outstanding Sophomores

WALSAA continues its proud tradition of promoting student excellence at UW-Madison. After receiving a number of applications, the WALSAA scholarship committee narrowed down its search for the Top 10 Outstanding Sophomores through a rigorous prescreening process that focused equally on academic achievement, campus involvement/leadership, community service and relevant experience. WALSAA's Outstanding Sophomore Awardees for 2016 include:

- Faith Bowman, Milwaukee, genetics
