President's Message: Fire-Up and FISC memorandum

WALSAA President Bryan Renk

Fire-Up is upon us and I look forward to seeing you, your friends and all the CALS alumni at the WALSAA Football Fire-Up on Saturday, Sept. 6. After Fire-Up, be certain to cheer for the Badgers and Coach Gary Anderson in their first home game of the season.

Our annual fall event will return again to the UW Foundation parking lot with its close proximity to Camp Randall stadium. Please plan to get there early to visit, enjoy food and refreshments, and, most importantly, check out and bid on the many silent auction items on display to help raise funds to support CALS students.

Silent Auction Chairwoman and Board Member Sara Schoenborn has again put together an impressive auction. Since the early days of WALSAA, Fire-Up has served as our primary fundraising activity for the year. Proceeds from the silent auction are critical to our mission in support of CALS students and the College. Last year, we raised more than $28,000 for scholarships and would like to raise even more this year. If you have an item to donate, be sure to contact us at admin@walsaa.org. In the meantime, check out the list of items received to date as listed on page 5 and consider being a bidder at this year's event.

Since my last message, WALSAA and FISC alumni have signed a memorandum of understanding to outline a way for both groups to work more formally together in support of CALS and its alumni. Thanks go out to WALSAA Board Members Al Herrman and Bob Behnke in helping to finish this agreement. It gives FISC alumni a standing committee within the WALSAA Board to plan and manage the FISC Reunion and other support for the program. It also better aligns alumni from both groups in supporting CALS and its many activities.

We are always encouraging all alumni to join WALSAA and gain the benefits this organization offers – renew old friendships, interact with CALS alumni and faculty and support current and future CALS students through scholarships, other contributions and awards.

If you are already a WALSAA member, we ask for you to please consider an additional contribution to support WALSAA in establishing new activities or maintaining existing initiatives.

On, Wisconsin!

Dean's Message: The value of celebration

As many of us in the CALS community know, this year has been a whirlwind. By the time you receive this newsletter, we will be past the halfway point of our 125th anniversary.

Already we can look back on many shining moments. Standouts include the dedication of our new Hector F. DeLuca Biochemical Sciences Complex in a moving, inspiring ceremony that brought in hundreds of colleagues and friends. Our departments of horticulture and soil sciences had festivities marking their own 125th anniversaries, making for a double celebration.

And then there was the Barn Dance at the family farm of Susan Crane, chairwoman of the CALS Board of Visitors. Three hundred people came from all corners of the CALS community to enjoy music, food, a silent auction – and of course, the fellowship of so many people who care about CALS. Everyone who participated contributed to the success of this event, which netted $21,377 for the CALS Annual Fund.

The year isn't over – and neither are our celebrations. On Oct. 16, 5:30 p.m., our Honorary Recognition Awards reception and banquet will pay tribute not only to this year's winners but also to past recipients, many of whom will be in attendance. We are offering a special party favor to all attendees – a packet of four notecards bearing CALS historical photos (as shown on this page). You can learn

WALSAA Farm Technology Days Annual Picnic set for Aug. 13

UW-Madison's College of Agricultural and Life Sciences and Farm & Industry Short Course graduates are invited to attend the annual Wisconsin Agricultural and Life Sciences Alumni Association (WALSAA) Farm Technology Days Picnic. It will be held Wednesday, Aug. 13, from 3 to 8 p.m. at Hancock Agricultural Research Station. Brats, burgers, salads, soda, beer, milk and dessert will be served. No reservations are needed and friends and family are welcome! Tickets are just $15 per person at the door.

The Hancock Research Station is a 412-acre vegetable crop research farm located in the Central Sands area of Wisconsin. Field trials at the station are related to potatoes, field corn, sweet corn, soybeans, snap beans, carrots, cucumbers and switchgrass. More than 500 varieties of perennials, annuals, shrubs and trees from many seed and plant sources will be showcased in the station's A.R. Albert and Villetta Hawley-Albert Horticultural Garden.

The 2014 Farm Technology Days host farms are Blue Top Farms and Feltz Family Farms, which are located east of Plover, south of Highway HH in Portage County.

The WALSAA picnic site is located south of the FTD site. The research station address is N3909 County Rd V, Hancock, WI 54943. The easiest way to get from FTD to the picnic site is to take 39/51 south and take the exit for County Hwy V, (Exit #131), and turn right. Turn left at County Hwy V (the frontage road following the highway south). The station is located about 1 mile south on the right hand side. The main office is the brick building. Signs will be posted to direct traffic from the show to the WALSAA picnic.

Marking our 125th has been a tremendously gratifying experience, one that has me thinking about the value of celebration. In any given year, on any given day, we may appreciate CALS' significance. But reaching a milestone offers us the opportunity to express it. Enjoy photos and stories from anniversary events past and future at www.cals.wisc.edu/125th.

And our contributions to this year's Wisconsin Science Festival include participating in "The Science of Supper Clubs," an event at which CALS and other UW experts will illuminate the science behind the signature foods and drinks – meat, potatoes, fish, cheese, cranberries, ice cream, beer, Old Fashioneds with maraschino cherries – that help make supper clubs such a beloved tradition. You'll be able to taste these foods, which all reflect CALS research. That event takes place on Friday, Oct. 17, 5 p.m. at the Wisconsin

WALSAA to hold annual meeting

The Wisconsin Agricultural and Life Sciences Alumni Association (WALSAA) Annual Meeting will be held at 8 a.m. on Sept. 6 at the WALSAA Football Fire-Up. Current WALSAA members and supporters are invited to attend.

The primary order of business will be to elect board members and to recognize outgoing board members. If you have other items for the agenda, please forward them to Maria McGinnis at admin@walsaa.org or Bryan Renk, WALSAA President, at bzrenk@gmail.com.

Fire-Up volunteers wanted

WALSAA is looking for those interested in fellowship through service to volunteer at its annual fundraising event. The WALSAA Football Fire-Up raises thousands of dollars each year for scholarships and that achievement wouldn't be possible without hard workers that help organize and work at the event.

This year a crew will begin event set-up at 6 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 5. Even more volunteers plan to arrive early on Saturday, Sept. 6, and a dedicated group will miss kick-off to be sure everything is cleaned up.

If you are interested in helping, please contact WALSAA at (608) 438-1994 or admin@walsaa.org for more details.

Campus Happenings: The beginning of memories to come

WALSAA Student Representatives Matt Olson and Logan Wells

With summer winding down and classes approaching, students are starting to make their way back to campus. To kick-off the year for students, the CALS Student Association will be hosting the CALS Fall Picnic on Thursday, Sept. 4. The fall picnic provides students an opportunity to explore and meet new student organizations. In addition to the student organization fair, students can meet and network with other students and faculty that attend the picnic.

Excitement, nervousness and curiosity are just a few of the feelings that new students have when they arrive on campus for the first time. Soon these young people will make the timeless memories of their Wisconsin Experience. Whether those are memories of meeting new friends, joining a club or doing Jump Around at Camp Randall, we are very fortunate to treasure those experiences. It is our obligation to continue to support CALS so that future students can have a chance to make timeless memories just like we have. Thank you so much for your support as alumni members in helping to create memories for students today! We are both very excited in working together this year and cannot wait to help continue to ensure a bright future for Badgers everywhere!

On, Wisconsin!

Meet WALSAA's new student representatives

Matt Olson

I am excited to be serving as the WALSAA student representative. I grew up on my family's dairy farm in Door County. I am a senior, studying life sciences communication. On campus, I am involved in the Alpha Gamma Rho Fraternity, the National Agri-Marketing Association, the CALS Student Association, and I recently joined the CALS Ambassadors. I am looking forward to working with WALSAA and meeting many of you during my time as the student representative.

Matt Olson

Logan Wells

I am a native of Monroe and a senior majoring in forest science. In the spring of 2013, I was honored to receive a WALSAA Outstanding Sophomore Award.

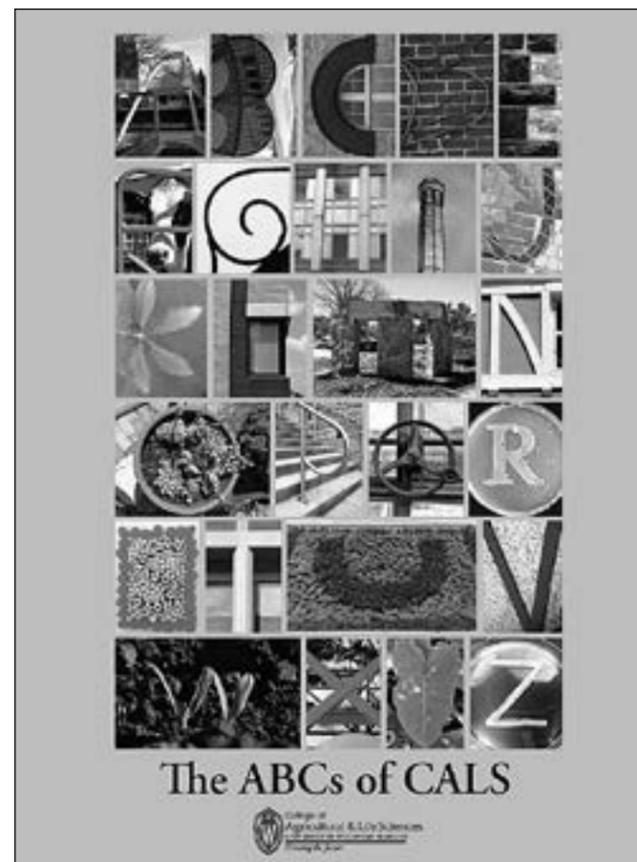

Logan Wells

In my free time, I operate a portable sawmill business called Smock Valley Timber. The main scope of my business is custom sawing everything from fence posts and barn boards to cabinetry grade lumber, but I also built a kiln so I can dry and sell lumber.

Over the past two years, I have served as a Wisconsin State FFA Officer, as vice president and president. Working with students and learning about the agricultural industry were two of my favorite parts in these roles with the FFA. I am very excited to bring those connections and leadership skills to the WALSAA Board of Directors as a student representative. Bringing students, faculty and alumni closer together is a goal I am very excited to help reach!

Interesting topics and Wisconsin accolades at NAADA conference

"ABCs of CALS" poster

Writing in the digital age; the challenges of defining, recruiting, and placement; engaging your college in its mission and brand. These are just some of the interesting topics that were discussed at the annual conference of the National Agricultural Alumni and Development Association (NAADA).

This year's conference was hosted by Penn State and drew more than 200 professionals working in alumni relations, student services, communications and development for colleges of agriculture around the nation.

We are proud that CALS External Relations received three NAADA awards this year. The CALS photo alphabet project sought to complete the alphabet – from A to Z – in photos taken of plants, architectural elements, lab equipment and other items found on the CALS campus. These photos were later used to spell messages in a variety of ways. You may even have an "ABCs of CALS" poster from the 2013 WALSAA Football Fire-Up!

CALS student recruitment email

Another award was for a student recruitment email, a collaborative project with the office of Academic Affairs to recruit high-school students to CALS and let them know what they need to do to prepare for college. The third award was given for an alumni reception held in Washington D.C. each year. This reception is hosted by all of the schools in the Big Ten that have agricultural programs, providing a unique networking opportunity for alumni.

More information about NAADA can be found at naada.org.

WALSAA members can plan now to secure future

Thank you for helping WALSAA bring together CALS alumni while supporting students and faculty to create solutions that work. You can become an integral part of WALSAA's future by including a charitable gift within your overall estate and financial plans.

With a little planning, you can continue supporting our work well into the future, as we continue to secure our position among the top tier of alumni organizations at leading public research universities.

Gifts you can make anytime include cash, stock, real estate, life insurance and retirement accounts. If your stock and real estate assets have grown over the years, giving them to WALSAA not only allows a charitable deduction but allows you to escape capital gain taxes. There are also tax advantages to giving IRA and other retirement accounts.

Gifts appropriate to designate in your estate plan may include retirement plan assets, savings bonds, life insurance death benefits, as well as the assets listed above. For more information on developing a planned gift that carries your values forward while maximizing financial benefits, contact WALSAA Marketing and Development Co-Chairwoman Valerie Johnson at valjohnson86@rocketmail.com or (608) 235-5595.

Potterton named director of UW-Madison FISC

Jessie Potterton has been named director of the Farm and Industry Short Course (FISC) in UW-Madison CALS. She has held the position on an interim basis for the past 12 months and will formally begin her new duties on Oct. 1.

Potterton says she's thrilled to be able to continue to lead FISC, a 17-week post-secondary educational program that prepares students for careers in agriculture and related fields.

"Being from a rural community, it was really exciting when I was asked to step in last year. I worked hard to build relationships with students and instructors and alumni and I'm looking forward to continuing that," Potterton says. "We also need to seek out representatives from the ag industry and develop an advisory board to help us improve our program. We need to make sure that our curriculum provides students with the right skills, and we need the industry's help to do that."

Potterton's success in the interim position made her a strong candidate for the job, says Sarah Pfatteicher, CALS associate dean for undergraduate programs and services.

Before joining FISC, Potterton served from 2011 to 2013 as CALS director of prospective student services. Prior to that, she worked for five years as a UW-Extension 4-H youth development educator in Lafayette County.
